

Vol. 3 -- #5

“Violence and Public Health” – A Filmed Lecture Presented to
The National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice
Washington, DC
November 24, 1982

This lecture is the first evidence of the collaborative effort promised by me in my lecture before the Western Psychiatric Institute that there would be a joint effort on the part of Justice and Public Health to practice primary prevention in reference to family violence.

Abused children
Battered spouses
Cost to society
Family intervention
High-risk families
Multidisciplinary research
Prevention of violence
Role of social services
Violent personality in children
Violent personality in parents

Eli Newberger
National Institute of Law Enforcement &
Criminal Justice